FINAL AGENCY DECISION

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the determination by the Retailer Operations Division to impose a six-month disqualification against E & M Deli Grocery Corp. (“Appellant”) from participating as an authorized retailer in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

ISSUE

The purpose of this review is to determine whether the Retailer Operations Division took appropriate action, consistent with Title 7 of Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) § 278.6(e)(5) in its administration of SNAP when it imposed a six-month period of disqualification against Appellant on August 7, 2018.

AUTHORITY

According to 7 U.S.C. § 2023 and its implementing regulations at 7 CFR § 279.1, “A food retailer or wholesale food concern aggrieved by administrative action under § 278.1, § 278.6 or § 278.7 . . . may . . . file a written request for review of the administrative action with FNS.”

CASE CHRONOLOGY

USDA conducted an investigation of Appellant’s compliance with federal SNAP law and regulations during the period of April 5, 2018 through April 28, 2018. The investigation reported that personnel at Appellant accepted SNAP benefits in exchange for ineligible merchandise on three separate occasions. These items sold during these impermissible transactions are best described in regulatory terms as “common ineligible nonfood items.” The investigation revealed that one unidentified male clerk was involved in the impermissible transactions. As a result of evidence compiled from this investigation, the Retailer Operations Division informed Appellant, in a letter dated June 18, 2018, that the firm was charged with violating the terms and conditions of the SNAP regulations, 7 CFR § 278.2(a). The letter states, in part, that the violations “. . . warrant a disqualification period of six months (Section 278.6(e)(5)). Under certain conditions, FNS may impose a civil money penalty (CMP) in lieu of a disqualification (Section 278.6(f)(1)).”

Appellant, through counsel, replied to the Retailer Operations Division’s charges in writing. The record reflects that the Retailer Operations Division received and considered the information provided prior to making a determination.

The Retailer Operations Division notified Appellant in a letter dated August 7, 2018 that the firm was being disqualified for six months from participation as an authorized retailer in SNAP. This determination letter also stated that Appellant’s eligibility for a hardship civil money penalty (CMP) according to the terms of Section 278.6(f)(1) of the SNAP regulations was considered. However, the letter stated to Appellant that “. . . you are not eligible for the CMP because there are other authorized retail stores in the area selling as large a variety of staple foods at comparable prices.”

On August 17, 2018, Appellant, through counsel, appealed the Retailer Operations Division’s decision to impose a six-month disqualification, and requested an administrative review of the action. The appeal was granted and implementation of the sanction has been on hold pending completion of this review.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In an appeal of an adverse action, Appellant bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of evidence that the administrative action should be reversed. That means Appellant has the burden of providing relevant evidence that a reasonable mind, considering the record as a whole, would accept as sufficient to support a conclusion that the argument asserted is more likely to be true than untrue.

CONTROLLING LAW

The controlling law in this matter is contained in the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, as amended (7 U.S.C. § 2021), and implemented through regulation under Title 7 CFR Part 278. In particular, 7 CFR § 278.6(a) and (e)(5) establish the authority upon which a six-month disqualification may be imposed against a retail food store or wholesale food concern.

Section 278.6(e)(5) of the SNAP regulations states, in part, when a firm is to be disqualified for six months:

If it is to be the first sanction for the firm and the evidence shows that personnel of the firm have committed violations such as but not limited to the sale of common nonfood items due to carelessness or poor supervision by the firm's ownership or management.

7 CFR § 278.6(a) states, in part:

FNS may disqualify any authorized retail food store . . . if the firm fails to comply with the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, as amended, or this part. Such disqualification shall result from a finding of a violation on the basis of evidence that may include facts established through on-site investigations, inconsistent redemption data, evidence obtained through a transaction report under an electronic benefit transfer system . . . .

APPELLANT'S CONTENTIONS

Appellant's responses regarding this matter are essentially as follows:

- Appellant denies the allegations;
- The details of the sales described in the investigative report are vague or ambiguous. The clerk's name, time of the incidents, and the amounts charged for the ineligible items is not identified;
- Trafficking attempts were rebuffed by the clerks;
- Appellant has been SNAP-authorized for six years and this is the first time there has been a problem with SNAP;
- All staff are trained on the proper handling of SNAP transactions monthly;
- Official FNS posters are posted in the store; and,
- Appellant requests a CMP.

These explanations may represent only a brief summary of Appellant's contentions. However, in reaching a decision, full consideration has been given to all contentions presented, including any others that have not been specifically listed here.

ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS

As to Appellant's denial of violations, this review examines the relevant information regarding the determination. Once the Retailer Operations Division establishes a violation occurred, Appellant bears the burden of providing relevant evidence to support a conclusion, considering the record as a whole, that the permanent disqualification should be reversed. If this is not demonstrated, the case will be sustained. Without supporting evidence and rationale, assertions that the firm has not violated program rules do not constitute valid grounds for overturning the determination.

Appellant contends all staff are trained on the proper handling of SNAP transactions each month, and official FNS posters are posted in the store. When ownership signed the FNS application to become a SNAP authorized retailer, this included a certification and confirmation that Appellant would "accept responsibility on behalf of the firm for violations of the SNAP regulations, including those committed by any of the firm's employees, paid or unpaid, new, full-time or part-time." The violations listed on this certification document include selling ineligible non-food items. Regardless of whom the ownership of a store may use to handle store business, ownership is accountable for the proper handling of SNAP benefit transactions.

First SNAP Violation

Appellant's maintains that it has been SNAP-authorized for six years this is the first time there has been an issue related to SNAP. A record of program participation with no documented previous violations, however, does not constitute valid grounds for mitigating the impact of the present charges of sale of nonfood items. In addition, the investigation report shows that of the four times that nonfood violations were attempted, store personnel permitted them three times. The Retailer Operations Division attributed violations to "carelessness, or poor supervision by the firm's ownership or management," pursuant to 7 CFR § 278.6(e)(5) of the SNAP regulations, which results in a disqualification of six months. Further, this penalty is only permitted if the firm has not been previously sanctioned. Appellant is correct that trafficking attempts were rebuffed, which would have resulted in a more severe penalty. Therefore, a six-month disqualification for the violations committed, the minimum, is the appropriate sanction in this case.

Investigative Record

Appellant contends the details of the sales described in the investigative report are vague or ambiguous. Contrary to Appellant's contention, the investigative report is very detailed, and includes a variety of specific characteristics about the clerk involved, the specifics about the transaction, and the details about the amounts of each item purchased. Appellant is correct that there is .40 cent discrepancy in the first transaction, which could have been because of an incorrect price listed on the investigative report for the can of chili or an overcharge by the clerk.

Based on a review of the evidence, it appears that the program violations at issue did, in fact, occur as charged. As noted previously, the charges of violations are based on the findings of a formal USDA investigation. All transactions cited in the letter of charges were conducted under the supervision of a USDA investigator and all are fully documented. The investigative record is specific and accurate with regard to the dates of the violations, the specific ineligible merchandise sold in exchange for SNAP benefits, and in all other critically pertinent detail.

CIVIL MONEY PENALTY

Appellant requested a fine in lieu of the six-month disqualification. A CMP as an optional penalty in lieu of a six-month disqualification was considered in this case. Such a finding is appropriate only if: 1) a store sells a substantial variety of staple food items, and; 2) its disqualification would create a hardship to SNAP households because there is no other authorized retail food store in the area selling as large a variety of staple food items at comparable prices.

In this regard, some degree of inconvenience to SNAP benefit users is inherent in the disqualification from the SNAP of any participating food store, since the normal shopping pattern of such SNAP benefit holders may temporarily be altered during that period. In this case, however, the Retailer Operations Division has rendered a finding pursuant to 7 CFR § 278.6(f) that it would not be appropriate to impose a CMP in lieu of a period of disqualification. The Retailer Operations Division has determined that Appellant is not the only authorized retail food store in the area "selling as large a variety of staple food items at comparable prices." In addition, the Retailer Operations Division notes that the subject store is classified in the FNS SNAP retailer database as a small grocery store. That database also shows 75 SNAP-authorized stores located within a one-mile radius, including medium grocery stores, supermarkets, and superstores. These larger stores are easily accessible to customers and offer a variety and quality of staple foods comparable to, or better than, those offered by Appellant. Appellant does not carry any unique items or foods that cannot be found at other stores. Therefore, the earlier determination that Appellant's disqualification would not create a hardship to customers, as differentiated from potential inconvenience, is sustained, and a CMP in lieu of disqualification is not appropriate in this case.

CONCLUSION

Based on the discussion above, the determination by the Retailer Operations Division to impose a disqualification of six months against E & M Deli Grocery Corp. from participating as an authorized retailer in SNAP is sustained.

In accordance with the Food and Nutrition Act, and the regulations thereunder, this penalty shall become effective thirty (30) days after receipt of this letter. A new application for participation in SNAP may be submitted ten (10) days prior to the expiration of the six-month disqualification period.

Applicable rights to a judicial review of this decision are set forth in 7 U.S.C. § 2023 and 7 CFR § 279.7. If Appellant desires a judicial review, the complaint must be filed in the U.S. District Court for the district in which Appellant's owner resides, is engaged in business, or in any court of record of the State having competent jurisdiction.
