Case Number: C0212306

Retailer Operations Division,

Respondent.

FINAL AGENCY DECISION

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the determination by the Retailer Operations Division to levy a Transfer of Ownership Civil Money Penalty of $33,000 against the former ownership of JC Mini Market (“Appellant”) for having sold a store during a period of disqualification from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

ISSUE

The purpose of this review is to determine whether the Retailer Operations Division took appropriate action, consistent with Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) § 278.6(f)(2), when it levied a Transfer of Ownership Civil Money Penalty (TOCMP) against Appellant on September 18, 2018.

AUTHORITY

According to 7 U.S.C. § 2023 and its implementing regulations at 7 CFR § 279.1, “A food retailer or wholesale food concern aggrieved by administrative action under § 278.1, § 278.6 or § 278.7 . . . may . . . file a written request for review of the administrative action with FNS.”

CASE CHRONOLOGY

In a letter received by the former owners on January 13, 2016, Appellant was notified that it was permanently disqualified as a SNAP-authorized retailer. A purchase agreement dated February 14, 2018 established Appellant sold JC Mini Market. In the Retailer Operations Division’s letter dated September 18, 2018, Appellant was assessed a lump sum Transfer of Ownership Civil Money Penalty (TOCMP) of $33,000 in accordance with 7 CFR § 278.6(f)(2) for the sale or transfer of ownership of JC Mini Market during a period of disqualification.

On September 25, 2018, Appellant appealed the Retailer Operations Division's assessment and requested an administrative review of this action. The appeal was granted and implementation of the sanction has been on hold pending completion of this review.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In an appeal of an adverse action, Appellant bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of evidence that the administrative action should be reversed. That means Appellant has the burden of providing relevant evidence that a reasonable mind, considering the record as a whole, would accept as sufficient to support a conclusion that the argument asserted is more likely to be true than untrue.

CONTROLLING LAW

The controlling law in this matter is contained in the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, as amended (7 U.S.C. § 2021), and implemented through regulation under Title 7 CFR Part 278. In particular, 7 CFR § 278.6(f)(2) establishes the authority upon which a civil money penalty may be imposed against a disqualified retail food store or wholesale food concern in the event that it has been sold or the ownership is otherwise transferred.

7 CFR § 278.6(f)(2) reads, in part:

In the event any retail food store . . . which has been disqualified is sold or the ownership thereof is otherwise transferred . . . the person or other legal entity who sells or otherwise transfers ownership . . . shall be subjected to and liable for a civil money penalty . . . .

APPELLANT'S CONTENTIONS

Appellant's responses regarding this matter are essentially as follows:

- For ten years, Appellant operated a thriving business which served a variety of institutions located near the store.
- Appellant passed all USDA inspections except one.
- Customers stopped shopping at Appellant once the firm was disqualified. Sales decreased dramatically, which forced the former owners to sell the firm.
- The former owners are deeply in debt and struggling to support their families. Appellant requests to be released from the CMP.

These explanations may represent only a brief summary of Appellant's contentions. However, in reaching a decision, full consideration has been given to all contentions presented, including any others that have not been specifically listed here.

ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS

The former owners contend that Appellant previously operated a thriving business which served a variety of institutions located near the store, and passed all USDA inspections except one. This appears to be an attempt to demonstrate that the earlier permanent disqualification imposed on the firm may have been improper. In this regard, no findings or conclusions on the merits of the specific arguments presented will be made. Appellant was permanently disqualified from participation in SNAP based on trafficking violations in a previous determination letter. Those matters dealing with the firm's permanent disqualification are not subject to this particular administrative review process but are included in other review processes of which Appellant was made aware, but which were not pursued.

The matter of the permanent disqualification imposed cannot properly be re-addressed in this context. The issue in this review is solely whether the Retailer Operations Division took appropriate action, consistent with 7 CFR § 278.6(f)(2) of the SNAP regulations, when it assessed a $33,000 Transfer of Ownership Civil Money Penalty against Appellant.

Appellant Subject to TOCMP

Appellant explained that customers stopped shopping at Appellant once the firm was disqualified; sales decreased dramatically, which forced the former owners to sell the firm. Regardless of the reason for the sale of the firm, 7 CFR § 278.6(f)(2) is quite specific in its directive that:

In the event any retail food store . . . which has been disqualified is sold or the ownership thereof is otherwise transferred . . . the person or other legal entity who sells or otherwise transfers ownership . . . shall be subjected to and liable for a civil money penalty . . .

The civil money penalty is calculated strictly on the basis of the SNAP redemption volume of the store over the 12 months prior to the firm's notification of the violations that led to the store's disqualification.

No Undue Hardship to Appellant

The former owners state they are deeply in debt, struggling to support their families, and request to be released from the TOCMP. While the former owners' financial situations may be worthy of sympathy, the transfer of ownership civil money penalty cannot be reduced based on Appellant's personal circumstances.

Economic hardship is a likely consequence whenever a store is permanently disqualified from SNAP participation and is assessed a transfer of ownership civil money penalty in the amount levied in this case. However, there is no provision in the SNAP regulations for reducing an administrative penalty on the basis of possible economic hardship to the firm resulting from imposition of such penalty. To excuse Appellant from an assessed administrative penalty based on purported economic hardship to the firm would render the enforcement provisions of the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008 and the enforcement efforts of the USDA virtually meaningless.

Moreover, giving special consideration to the firm for economic hardship would forsake fairness and equity, not only to competing stores and other participating retailers who are complying fully with program regulations, and also to those retailers who have been disqualified from the program in the past for similar violations and also assessed civil money penalties. Therefore, Appellant's contention that it will incur economic hardship based on the assessment of an administrative penalty does not provide any valid basis for dismissing the charges or for mitigating the imposed penalty.

However, the regulations do provide the option of an installment plan for paying the CMP over the period of disqualification. The regulations at 7 CFR § 278.6(h), state the following:

A firm has 15 days from the date the FNS regional office notifies the firm in writing in which to pay the civil money penalty or to notify the regional office in writing of its intent to pay in installments as specified by the regional office. The civil money penalty must be paid in full by the end of the period for which the firm would have been disqualified.

Appellant can contact Financial Management at 703-305-2830 to discuss payment of this penalty in installment payments or online in one lump sum.

Summary

Based on a review of the evidence, JC Mini Market was, indeed, sold following its disqualification from SNAP on January 13, 2018. Therefore, 7 CFR § 278.6(f)(2) of the SNAP regulations is applicable in this case as it pertains to a civil money penalty for the sale or transfer of a disqualified firm.

CONCLUSION

Based on the discussion above, the determination by the Retailer Operations Division to levy a Transfer of Ownership Civil Money Penalty of $33,000 against Appellant for selling JC Mini Market during a period of disqualification from SNAP is sustained.
